VALENTINE

Special Correspondence to the Mohave County Miner

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Wheeler of Crozier died on Sunday night and was buried at Hackberry on Monday.

Mr. Clark of the Indian School was given a surprise party on Wednesday evening by his fellow employees, the occasion being his birthday. Music and games were enjoyed, and dainty refreshments were served, the guests departed at a late hour, all wishing Mr. Clark many happy returns.

Mr. McDonald at Mt. View is a very busy man these days getting ready for the big Labor Day picnic. He has dug a pit for the big barbeque which will be a feature of the day.

Mrs. Purdy has returned to her home in Needles after spending the summer at Mt. View Ranch.

Dr. Wallace, Gov't. Dentist, is at the Indian School on professional business, he is repairing the old Indians' teeth before the children come back to school, when he will be busy with the younger ones.

JUDGE ALFRED FRANKLIN

announces his candidacy for re-election to the office of

subject to the DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY September 10th.

LANG'S THEATRE--PROGRAM FOR WEEK

Saturday, Aug. 31, Chas. Ray in "His Own Home Town," and "Pathe News." Regular prices.

It's a long road that doesn't lead, sooner or later to your "Own home town". If you carry 'round a warm spot in your heart for your Old Home see this picture. It will recall pleasant memories. World Views in Pathe News.

Sunday, Sept. 1, Clara Kimball Young in "The Savage Woman," and a Pathe comedy. Regular prices.

Leopard skins and flowing hair vs. high heeled slippers and trains. The Savage Woman submits—for awhile A beautiful wild thing in an African jungle and her reactions to the restrictions of civilized life. Also a Pathe Laugh Promoter.

Monday, Sept. 2, special, "The World for Sale," and a two-part Mack Sennett comedy, "She Loved Him Plenty." Prices 17c and 39c.

All the thrills, adventures, and wild romance that enter into the life of a budding empire, are vividly portrayed in this story of the Great Northwest and racial conflict, by the world famous author, Sir Gilbert Parker, also a sure fire Mack Sennett Comedy, a big double bill.

Tuesday, Sept. 3, Gladys Rockwell in "The Devil's Wheel," and Pathe News. Regular prices.

The title of this production is based on the game of roulette. This is a thrilling play with the underworld of Paris as the background, the Apache cafe scenes are true to life. Miss Brockwell plays a dual role, she is the Wildcat and the Gentle One too. World Views in Pathe News.

Wednesday, Sept. 4, Dorothy Dalton in "Tyrant Fear," also fifth episode of "The Fighting Trail." Regular prices.

A tale of the Canadian wilds, a picture of primal passions, wherein the tyranny of fear is at last conquered in a woman's heart and her fight to regain her soul and self respect finally is won against odds. Also fifth episode of that thrilling and stirring serial "The Fighting Trail."

Thursday, Sept. 5, Franklyn Farnum in "The Fighting Grin," also a "Big V" comedy. Regular prices.

A comedy drama of speed and action that is sure to provoke gales of laughter, not alone is the plot ridiculous, but circumstances that arise are uncommon even in these days of surprises on the screen. Also a Big V comedy, which will make a full comedy programme.

Friday, Sept. 6, special, Wm. S. Hart in "Blue Blazes Rawden," and two-part Sunshine comedy, "Milk Fed Vamp." Prices 17c and 39c.

An entirely new role is created by Wm. S. Hart, in this his latest picture in which he appears as the boss of a rough lumber camp, in the wilds of the Canadian Northwest. Also a two part comedy of the New Sunshine Brand made by Lehrman and guaranteed to tickle the most solemn person.

FROM THE "STARS AND STRIPES" PUBLISHED FOR THE BOYS IN FRANCE

Rules specify that no P. G. shall be deprived of his personal effects—Iron Crosses and the like—but almost any captured German is willing to sacrifice anything he has for real tobacco.

When one Boche arrived before the examining officer and was told to empty his pockets, he laid out five partly filled sacks of American mak-in's, and not much else. For it he had traded off an Iron Cross, his helmet, a trench knife, and all the buttons he could spare.

A certain American private wasn't satisfied, however, with any modest, vest pocket souvenirs of the battle. Nothing would do for him, he explained, but a German machine gun.

After his unit was relieved he went to a salvage pile, selected a weapon in good order, and carried it, in addition to his full pack and rifle, all the long, weary kilometers back to repos.

It was not until after he had arrived that he discovered it was a French and not a German gun he had seized. We won't repeat his remarks when he made the discovery.

Your M. P. must escort the prisoners to the rear, and there has been quite a lot of a job lately up Chateau Thierry way. One captured lieutenant got quite a way down the road with a pistol hidden on him, and in a moment of irritation at the geying he was getting from 50 of his own men who were goose-stepping cheerfully into bondage with him, he took a pot shot at the M. P.

The M. P. was wounded, but not disabled, and a pistol duel followed; in another moment there was one less Prussian junker in this vale of tears. The outcome was greeted with unaffected delight by all the other prisoners, who were revelling in the first chance to speak their minds that they had had in all their days.

A private of the buck species was watching a plane duel in the skies. "Quite a sight," said a voice beside him, and his head nearly dropped off when he saw that it belonged to the general commanding the division.

There is a story in that same division, about the same general, which describes how he was seen one day recently walking along and chatting with a top sergeant. This shows that a use has at last been found for top sergeants.

That division did its share, and paid its price for the doing, when it helped to drive the Hun back across the Marne. That night someone softly opened the general's door, and then as softly closed it. And the word went around that he sat with his face buried in his hands, and his frame quivering with sobs.

A lanky private was detailed to take a captured German artillery officer to regimental headquarters. He had progressed about a half a mile when the American noticed that his charge was tearing up some papers he evidently didn't want to get into American hands and scattering the pieces along the road.

"Aint you the cute cuss?" said the American. "Now you just go back and pick them all up."

The officer may not have understood the instructions, but he did the gestures which accompanied them, and he complied. He spent the next half hour painstakingly gathering the fragments of a map, which, when pasted together showed all the Boche artillery positions in his sector.
